ABSTRACT

This directory describes tests available for use by psychologists, educators and human resource personnel in businesses. Each of the three main sections is divided into subsections. Psychology contains 21 subsections; Education, 49 subsections; and Business, 20 subsections. The tests within each subsection are listed alphabetically by title. Each test entry is structured as follows: test title and author/s; copyright date; population for which the test is intended; a purpose statement; a brief description highlighting the test's major features; format information; scoring method; relevant cost and availability information; and primary publisher. Five indexes are provided: an index of publishers; an index of publishers not in the fifth edition (but in the previous edition); an index of tests not in this edition); an index of authors; and an index of test titles.
